With the little that was known about my great-great grandfather, it has been a lifetime project to reconstruct his life. Finally, in the year 2001, I could put together this summary from information gathered over the years by me, Thelma Price-Papillo, and Don Hartzell. Each one of us found crucial pieces of the puzzle, except, sadly, Don passed away before we learned of David's life before 1836. For someone so unknown, the detail we have learned of his life and ancestry will astonish you! Anyone in the world using Internet search engines like Google to search for "David Hartzell" will find this web page.

I am certain we have David Hartzell's correct ancestry. Direct proof has apparently been lost to history, but I believe it has been proved indirectly: click on my home page link "Evidence for Ancestry of David Hartzell". The full family history is on my website and in Paul Swan's Hartzell Chapter. See the link to the Hartzell Chapter on my home page, along with a link to a backup copy. Paul is a descendant of David's brother Philip and has extensive information on our Hartsell line back to 1580 Switzerland. There is a summary of Paul's info at the end of this document.

This is the grave of David & Barbara Hartzell, at the Ash Grove Christian Church, 1.5 miles southeast of Windsor, Illinois, on the east side of the church. Looking east toward Ohio and Virginia from where they came.

When I first saw this grave at my grandfather's funeral in 1953, I was 14 years old and overwhelmed with curiosity. Virtually nothing was known about them. Little did I know it would take 48 years to find the full story, nor that it would launch a website on a world-wide computer network called the Internet.

Because so little was known about David Hartzell, and because he is the link to our older Hartsell ancestry, this separate life story was written.

This chart summarizes my "Evidence" document, showing how David Hartzell was connected to the Adam Hartzell family in Virginia through George Hartzell and James Alexander of 1820's Union County Indiana.

George Hartzell (bottom of chart) was connected to the William Toney family
(close neighbor of Philip & Adam Hartzell in Virginia), connected to the Sink family
Virginia, and most likely a son or cousin of Adam Hartzell.

FRANKLIN COUNTY, VIRGINIA, 1805 - 1815

David Hartzell was born Wednesday, November 20, 1805, west of Boone's Mill, Virginia. His birthdate is according to his age at death shown on his gravestone. Thomas Jefferson was President of the United States. The Lewis & Clark expedition had just reached the Pacific Ocean, and began building Fort Clatsop to spend the winter (Astoria, Oregon). George Washington had died only 6 years ago (Dec. 14, 1799), and Benjamin Franklin about 15 years ago (Apr. 17, 1790). The Revolutionary War had ended in 1789.

David Hartzell was the youngest son of Adam and Christina (Sink) Hartzell, who were married about 1786 in Pennsylvania. Adam Hartzell was born about 1765 in Bethlehem Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, near Allentown. Adam's father was Johann Philip Hartzell. Adam's grandfather Hans Jacob Hertzel came to America as an 11-year old, with his father Hans George Hirtzel, in 1727 on the ship William & Sarah, from The Palatinate (Germany). David and probably another brother were the only ones born in Virginia; the other children were born near Arendtsville, York (now Adams) County, Pennsylvania, near Gettysburg. David's brothers and sisters were George? born about 1785?; Philip, born 1787; Jacob, born 1790; John, born 1793; Catherine, born bef. 1794; Jonas, born 1796; Elizabeth, born 1798; Leonard, born 1799; and ??, born abt. 1802?.

As to the spelling of the name, in a letter from Jacob Hartzell to his brother Philip in 1816, the name is clearly spelled "Hartzell" repeatedly. The letter is on my website.

In February, 1792, while George Washington was President, David Hartzell's grandfather Philip, at the age of 49, had purchased 150 acres of land for 160 pounds near Boone's Mill, Franklin County, Virginia. See Settlement Map on the next page. 150 acres is about 1/3 the size of the rectangle for Boone Mill, and if square, almost 1/2 mile on a side (almost a quarter section). Since the land touched or crossed both Little Creek and Mill Creek, it had to be where the creeks were about half a mile apart at that time. It was on a branch of Mill Creek, and adjoining George Griffith's land. According to a USGS map, the branch of creek south of Bunker Hill was part of Little Creek. I would say the land was just southwest of Boone's Mill, and 8 or 9 miles NNW of Rocky Mount.

Near the center is Rocky Mount, Franklin County, Virginia. Between Rocky Mount and Roanoake is Boone's Mill, about 10 miles south of Roanoke.

The family lived in this area from 1792 to 1815, W or SW of Boones Mill.

Abraham Sink, a likely brother of Adam's wife Christina Sink, went from Pennsylvania to Virginia at the same time as Philip Hartzell, and settled near Philip on a branch of Mill Creek.

Since the Hartzells lived close to William Toney's land (upper left corner below), here is a description of William's land from the Toney website. "In 1773, William took his family and moved to the Blue Ridge. The site was a small meadow beside a mountain stream flowing off Cahas mountain into the North Fork of the Blackwater River. The cabin was built beside a flowing spring. Finger ridges extend out from the mountain on both east and west sides. The family cemetery was placed in a grove of trees in the saddle of the east finger ridge, close above the cabin. The graves are marked only by rough uncut field stones. In 1774, a survey shows a second tract of land obtained by William Toney. It included both finger ridges and far up the south face of Cahas Mountain."

Width of map is 18 miles. It is 5 miles from Boone Mill to Toney's land, and to Googinsville.
Abraham Hartzell's 1796 land purchase was immediately south of Moses Greer's land.
For more information on this map, click on my home page link "Hartzell Land in Virginia".

In January 1793, Philip Hartzell was a surety for the marriage of his daughter Margaret, in Franklin County, Virginia. Therefore, it is presumed that Philip moved his family from York (now Adams) County, Pennsylvania, to Franklin County, Virginia sometime in 1792. The route they took may have been along where Interstate 81 is now located. The distance is about 300 miles.

No record has been found of Adam Hartzell buying land in this area. He may have lived on his father's or brother's land. In April, 1796, Adam's brother Abraham bought 23.5 acres adjacent to Moses Greer's land, which was just southwest of Gogginsville according to the Settlement Map above. This was about 4 miles NW of Rocky Mount.

Going by the order of names in the 1810 VA Census, and the Settlement Map of Franklin County, we can get an idea where the families were living at that time. Adam Hartzell and George Hartzell, fairly close to each other (8 households apart), are listed near the names John Webster and James McVey. This puts them close to William Toney's 1774 land.

This is where David Hartzell spent his early childhood. Two pages later in the 1810 census, David's grandfather Philip Hartzell is listed 3 names from Moses Greer, which puts him just west of Gogginsville. This may well have been on Philip's son Abraham's land.

A bit puzzling, Adam's children were being born in Pennsylvania supposedly up to Leonard in 1799. Adam was a surety in Franklin County, Virginia, October 1794, for the marriage of his sister Catherine. I'm not sure if he had to actually be there. Perhaps Adam's family didn't follow until after 1799.

To establish the family setting in Franklin County Virginia about this time, the following marriages are recorded for Adam Hartzell's brother & sisters (David's uncle and aunts).
Margaret Hartzell married Andrew Roland 1/25/1793; Surety was Phillip Hartzell.
Catherine Hartzell married Jacob Mulenden 10/20/1794; Surety was Adam Hartzell.
Abraham Hartzell married Eve Houtz 5/23/1796; Surety was Christian Houtz.
Elizabeth Hartzell married Jacob Kinzie 9/11/1798; Surety was Phillip Hartzell. Notice Henry Kinsey's land just NW of Boone Mill.

Below was Boone's Mill in Franklin County, Virginia, built around 1790 near where David's family lived. It was surely seen by David Hartzell when he was a child. David's cousin Clarisa (Hartzell) Kinsey married Jacob Boone in 1817, and they lived at the mill. The area around the mill site is now the town of Boone's Mill, Virginia.

Boone's Mill

The most compelling evidence linking David Hartzell to the Adam Hartzell family is through George Hartzell of 1820's Union County, Indiana. There is no doubt of a close connection between David and George. The details are in my "Evidence" document, so to make a long story short, George was most likely a son or cousin of Adam Hartzell. I think "son" is more likely, also considering that George's estimated birth year (1785) and Adam's estimated marriage year (1786) are close enough to make this possible. George was most likely living in Adam's household, in Franklin County VA, by 1808 (about age 23). If a cousin, George could have been like a son to Adam, and like a brother to David. George could have been the son of Philip's brother John Hartzell, who married Catherine Schneider in 1781. This George married into the Toney family in 1809 in Franklin Co. VA as we will see below. The Toney's lived near Philip Hartzell's 1792 land. George was also related by marriage to the Sink family. George named his first son John and first daughter Catherine, which would be after his parents if he was a cousin of Adam, or after a brother & sister if he was a son.

On March 28, 1809, George Hartzell married Susannah Toney in Franklin County Virginia. Surety was James Toney, son of William Toney. It is presumed James Toney was Susannah's father. Note William Toney's land on the Franklin County map, east of Boone Mill. James Toney's brother Jesse married Frony "Fanny" Sink, daughter of Stephen Sink. Stephen Sink was a possible brother of Christina Sink (David's mother). Again, see "Evidence" document. By 1818, George Hartzell had land that was adjacent to the land that Jacob Hartzell bought in 1818. This adds to the possibility that George and Jacob were brothers. They were fairly close in age, about 5 years apart. George's land was also adjacent to Toney's land and to John Webster's land.

Also in 1810, David Hartzell's probable uncle Stephen Sink (Sinck) is listed on page 580 with 3 other Sink households, with all 4 listed next to each other: David Sinck, Daniel Sinck, and Henry Sinck.

The 1810 Census for Franklin County Virginia shows in the household of Adam Hartzell (page 592):

1 male 26-45	- Adam Heartsell	b. 1765-1784	(abt. 1765)
1 female 26-45	- Christina	b. 1765-1784	(abt. 1768)
1 male 16-25	- must be Jacob	b. 1785-1794	(1790)
1 male 16-25	- must be John	b. 1785-1794	(1793)
1 male 10-15	- must be Jonas	b. 1794-1800	(1796)
1 female 10-15	- must be Elizabeth	b. 1794-1800	(1798)
1 male under 10	- must be Leonard	b. 1800-1809	(1799)
1 male under 10	- ?	b. 1800-1809	(abt. 1802?)
1 male under 10	- must be David	b. 1800-1809	(1805)

Son Phillip was married and had his own household.
Catherine must have married.

The 1810 Census for Franklin County Virginia shows George Hartzell living 8 households from Adam. In George's household were (page 592):

1 male 16-25	- George Heartsell	b. 1785-1794
1 female 16-25	- Susannah	b. 1785-1794
1 female under 10	- Catherine?	b. 1800-1810	(1810)

We have daughter Catherine born about 1811-12.

For Adam's father Philip Hartzell, the 1810 Franklin County Virginia Census shows or page 594:

1 male 45 & over	- Philip Heartsell	b. before 1765
1 female 45 & over	- Christina Barbara	b. before 1765
1 male 16-25	- Frederick?	b. 1785-1794
1 male 10-15	- ?	b. 1794-1800
1 female 10-15	- ?	b. 1794-1800

The spelling of the name as "Heartsell" suggests the same census taker did all three.

Before 1812, some Hartzell family members had migrated to the Germantown Ohio area, near Dayton in Montgomery County. One was David's uncle Abraham Hartzel around 1804, and one was David's future brother-in-law escaping service in the War of 1812 (Catherine's husband). Abraham Hartzell "entered" 160 acres on March 25, 1805 in Section 12, SW 1/4, Range 4, Township 3 (German Township). The land is just north of what later became Germantown.

At the start of the War of 1812, David was in Virginia, age 6. In 1814, when David was 8, the British burned Washington, and "The Star Spangled Banner" was written.

Something rare in those days, David knew his grandparents Philip and Christina Hartzell. He must have had some memory of them later in his life. Philip died after 1820. He may have told his grandson what it was like before and during the American Revolution.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY, OHIO, 1816 - ~1830

In late 1815, when David Hartzell was 10 years old, Adam and his family moved to Montgomery County Ohio. They apparently followed family members, leaving Virginia Sep. 1, 1815, and arriving in Germantown, Montgomery County, Ohio, on Christmas day.

Montgomery County, Ohio

The Adam Hartzell family lived near Ellerton, between Miamisburg and Liberty along route 4, SW of Dayton (see detail map below). The Indiana border (and Union County Indiana) is 25 miles west.

Here is roughly the orientation of the Indiana-Illinois counties in which we will be interested; left is West:

The spelling of the name as "Hanchell" suggests the same German accent did all these.

Before 1812, some Hansel family members had migrated to the Germantown Ohio area, near Dayton in Montgomery County. One was David's uncle Abraham Hansel around 1804, and one was David's future brother-in-law escaping service in the War of 1812 (Catherine's husband). Abraham Hansell "entered" 160 acres on March 25, 1805 in Section 12, SW 1/4, Range 4, Township 3 (German Township). The land is just north of what later became Germantown.

At the start of the War of 1812, David was in Virginia, age 6. In 1814, when David was 8, the British burned Washington, and "The Star Spangled Banner" was written.

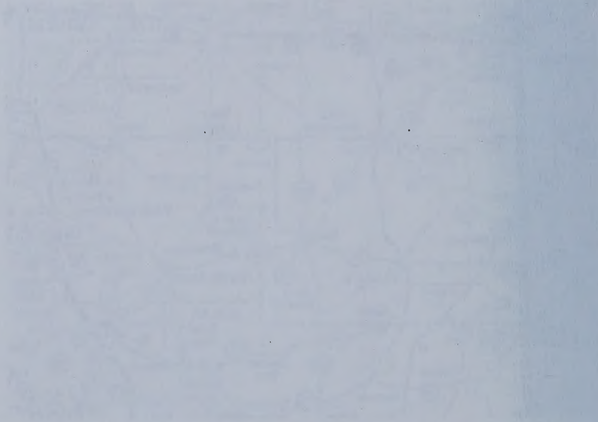
Something rare in those days, David knew his grandparents Philip and Christina Hansel. He must have had some memory of them later in his life. Philip died after 1820. He may have told his grandson what it was like before and during the American Revolution.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY, OHIO, 1816 - 1820

In late 1816, when David Hansel was 10 years old, Adam and his family moved to Montgomery County, Ohio. They apparently followed family members, leaving Virginia Sept. 1, 1816, and arriving in Germantown, Montgomery County, Ohio, on Christmas day.

Montgomery County, Ohio

The Adam Hansel family lived near Ellerton, between Miamisburg and Liberty, along route 4, SW of Dayton (see detail map below). The Indiana border (and Union County location) is 25 miles west.



Here is roughly the orientation of the Indiana-Illinois counties in which we will be interested, left to right.

Rush County	Fayette County	Union County	Preble County	Montgomery County
Indiana	Indiana	Indiana	Ohio	Ohio

(From July 2002 Smithsonian magazine.) "In April 1815, Indonesia's Mt. Tambora erupted, the most destructive explosion on earth in the past 10,000 years. Ash filled the atmosphere world-wide. In the northeastern United States, the weather in mid-May of 1816 turned cold, with summer frost striking New England and as far south as Virginia. On July 4, water froze in cisterns and snow fell. It was the year without a summer. Failing crops and rising prices in 1815 and 1816 threatened American farmers. Odd as it may seem, the settling of the American heartland was apparently shaped by the eruption of a volcano 10,000 miles away. Thousands left New England for what they hoped would be a more hospitable climate west of the Ohio River. Partly as a result of such migration, Indiana became a state in 1816 and Illinois in 1818."

At the time of the family move in late 1815, son David was 10 years old, so he surely remembered this trip. They left Virginia Sept. 1, 1815, about 7 months after the War of 1812 ended. (The following from Paul Swan.) It took them just over sixteen weeks, their covered wagon probably having been drawn by oxen. Their most likely route was west-southwest to the Kentucky border, then west along the main wilderness trail, or circling south into Tennessee over a slightly longer but easier route. They then would have gone north through the Cumberland Gap, across the Cumberland River a little way west, and then turned and made their way due north, up Boone's road and beyond across the Ohio River into western Ohio. This would have amounted to about a 480 mile trek, at a little over four miles per day. They first headed to where George Sink, a possible uncle of Christina, had settled in 1804, about 20 miles north of Germantown. They settled in or near Ellerton, about 5 miles northeast of Germantown.

This was almost the edge of the frontier. In 1815, Connersville Indiana was a small Indian station on the outposts of the white settlements.

After 1815, and until he went to Indiana by 1835, David lived near the town of Ellerton, Ohio, between Liberty and Miamisburg.

On November 19, 1816, David's brother Jacob Hartzell, who stayed behind in Virginia, married Hannah Capper. On October 15, 1818, David's sister Elizabeth ("Betsy") married Moses Rentfrow in Montgomery County, Ohio. On October 19, 1819, David's brother John married Susanna Heck in Montgomery County, Ohio. Around 1825, David's brother Leonard married Delilah Weiss in Montgomery County, Ohio.

NOTE: Erroneous information from "The Hartzell Ancestral Line" says that Adam Hartzell married Mary Spiekard Aug. 11, 1821 in Montgomery County, Ohio. In the "Marriage Book, Montgomery County", there is "Marriage of Hetzel; Adam to Mary Spickard Aug. 10, 1826". Since there was also an error on David Hartzell marrying a Margaret Nievel (another NOTE below), and an error on Adam's son George Hartzell marrying Margaret Yaughey (wrong George), I am ignoring the marriage of our Adam to Mary Spiekard. There is still another NOTE below on a land purchase by an Adam Hutzel in 1827.

The 1820 Montgomery County Ohio Census, Jefferson Township, shows for the Adam Hartzell family (p. 116):

1 male 45+       - Adam Hartsell
1 female 45+     - Christina
1 male 16-26     - Must be Jonas, age 24
1 male 16-26     - Must be Leonard, age 21
1 male 10-16     - Must be David, age 14

`It is unknown who or what happened to the male under 10 in 1810.`

By Nov. 1826, George & Susannah (Toney) Hartsell were in Union County Indiana, where George was witness to the will of a John Stanley. In Oct. 1828, George Hartsell purchased 160 acres 2 miles east of Kitchell, Indiana in Union County, in the NE corner of the county, 1/2 mile from the Ohio border. It was the NW 1/4 of Section 24 in Harrison Township.

There is no known record of Adam Hartzell buying or selling land in Montgomery County, Ohio.

NOTE: The land purchase described below must be the Adam Hetzel who married Mary Spikard 8/10/1826, and who apparently was not our ancestor.

On May 17, 1827, Adam "Hutzel" and his wife Mary purchased, for $500.00, 50 acres off the west end of the south half of the northeast quarter (S 1/2 NE 1/4), Section 26, Township 2, Range 7, Montgomery County, Ohio. This land is in Van Buren Township, about 9 miles as the crow flies from Ellerton. Notice it was 9 months after their marriage. On June 13, 1827, they purchased, for $60.00, the remaining 30 acres on the east end of the S 1/2 NE 1/4. This land was between the "great and little Miami Rivers". Five years later, on June 2, 1832, Adam "Hurtzel" sold this land for $1000.00.

FAYETTE COUNTY, INDIANA, ~1830 - 1860

David does not appear in the 1830 Ohio or Indiana census as either head of household or in the household of his father Adam. Because of a seemingly close association to George Hartsell of Union County Indiana, he may have gone to Indiana before 1830. Since George was apparently a shoemaker, this could be where David learned his trade.

The 1830 Montgomery County Ohio Census, Jefferson Township, shows for the Adam Hartzell family (p. 235):

1 male 60-69 - Adam Hartsell
1 female 60-69 - Christina
1 male 30-39 - ?
1 male 30-39 - ?

David was 24 and not in the household.

NOTE: Erroneous previous information said that David Hartzell married Margaret Nieval in 1830 in Montgomery County Ohio. In "Montgomery County, Ohio Marriage Journals 1803-1850", Vol. B, page 38, there is "on the 29th of April 1830 David Hetzel and Margaret Nievel". David Hetzel was born May 4, 1806 in Rehrersburg, Berks County, PA; son of John and Catharina (Thomas) Hetzel.

My dad's cousin Don Hartzell remembered hearing, when he was a kid, that some old shoemaking tools, still at G'ma Sophronia's, had belonged to one of our grandfathers. He had always connected it with another story that he had heard that one of our grandfather Hartsells was a one-legged shoe cobbler. David's daughter-in-law Sophronia would have known. She died in 1926. It seems that the story would have been more definite than this if it was David, so I rather doubt it. The 1860 Census shows David's occupation as "farmer".

The 1830 Union County Indiana Census shows for the George Hartzel family:

1 male 40-49 - George Hartzell b. abt. 1785
1 female 30-49 - Susannah Hartzell b. abt. 1792
1 female 20-29 - Catherine Hartzell b. abt. 1811
1 female 10-14 - Frances/Fanny Hartzell b. abt. 1815
1 male 5-9 - John Hartzell b. Nov. 28, 1820
1 female 5-9 - Susannah Hartzell b. Aug. 18, 1822
1 male under 5 - Adam Hartzell b. Dec. 9, 1825

1 female under 5 - Salina Hartzell b. Mar. 10, 1827

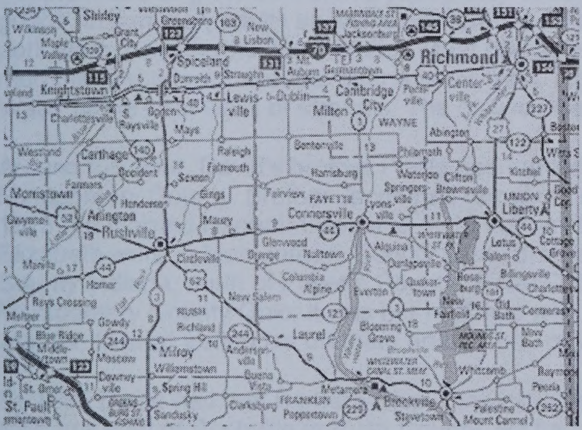
David Hartzell, age 24, was not in the household.

In late 1830, George Hartzell died in Union County, Indiana. Executor and a primary beneficiary of his will was James Alexander (last name Alexander). James was a son-in-law of George, having married George's daughter Catherine in 1827. James and Catherine lived next to George's place in 1830 and 1840. In George's will, his property contained "a lot of shoemaker tools".

The 1830 Union Co. IN Census shows James Alexander's family as:

1 male 20-29 - James Alexander b. abt. 1806 Tennessee
1 female 20-29 - Catherine Alexander b. abt. 1811 Virginia
1 child under 5 - guardianship of child of George? Adam?
1 child under 5 - guardianship of child of George? Salina?

James & Catherine were to have sons David and Adam after 1844.



East Central Indiana

Along Route 44 is Rushville (Rush County), Connersville (Fayette County), and Liberty (Union County).

Carthage is NW of Rushville. Kitchel is NE of Liberty. Springersville and Alquina are east of Connersville.

1838 Metamora, a "must see" if you're in the area, is south of Connersville, or visit www.metamoraindiana.com.

David's father Adam Hartzell was still alive in Ohio in 1830, and 60-70 years old. Adam probably died in the 1830's. David's children never knew their grandparents. It is believed that Adam and Christina were buried at Ellerton, north of Germantown, but that their graves were destroyed when Hemple Road was straightened.

David's brother Leonard was still in Ohio in 1831 when his daughter Susanna was born. Daughter Nancy was born in 1832 in Indiana. When Leonard migrated to Indiana, he surely stopped by George Hartsell's place where David may have been. (This is leading up to how David may have met his future wife Barbara in Rush County.) David may have gone to Rush County with Leonard at this time. Remember, David was a shoemaker and wasn't tied down to any particular location. They would have passed through Connersville, probably the largest town in all three counties.

In Sept. 1832, Leonard bought land in the northern part of Rush County, Indiana, about 2.5 miles east of the present town of Carthage, halfway between Richmond and Indianapolis. It was 46 acres in Center Township, Section 22. He sold this land in 1835. In March 1840, he bought the S 1/2 of the NE 1/4 of Section 16 in Ripley Township, 1/2 mile from his 1832 land. Leonard was David's older brother by 5 or 6 years. By now Leonard and Delilah's children were Willis, Lewis, Adam, Susanah and baby Nancy. These were David's nephews and nieces.

Now, as already mentioned, there was a world-wide cholera epidemic that affected Indiana in 1833. We had noticed a large number of deaths that year, and this is why. Some quotes from internet searches are: "1833 Worldwide cholera epidemic reaches Bloomington; Indiana College students abandon town for a month." "Harriett Sells died 23 Nov 1832 in cholera epidemic, Rush County Indiana." "In the summer of 1833, a cholera epidemic killed 500 Lexingtonians in two months, and half the population fled the city in fear."

It is difficult to imagine what life was like in the early 1830's in Indiana. Log cabins were the usual form of housing. Matches were not yet available, so it was easier to "keep the home fires burning" all the time, even in the summer, rather than the arduous task of starting a fire with flint & steel. This made cabins very hot in the summer. Window screens had not yet been invented, so flies, mosquitos and gnats were a constant nuisance, along with flies on the food. People made or grew almost everything they used, and depended on barter for manufactured goods. In summer, adults as well as children went barefoot most of the time. Corn, game and pork were the principle items of diet. Meat had to be salted and dried for preservation. Liquid mud made roads impassable after a heavy rain. Lighting came from candles and lanterns. Water came from wells or streams. The only ice they saw was in the winter.

Around this time, David's brother Phillip had moved to Miami County Ohio, just north of Montgomery County. Brother Jacob had remained in Virginia when the family went to Ohio in 1815 (he married Hannah Capper in 1816 in Franklin County). Brother John and sister Elizabeth were in Montgomery County Ohio. Brother Jonas appears to have moved to Jay County Indiana, north of Fayette County. Sister Catherine (Kate) was probably in or near Montgomery County Ohio; it was her husband who fled there to escape the War of 1812. I wonder if David visited his brothers and sisters, or vice versa.

By 1835 David had met Barbara Nipp. Since she was apparently living with her uncle George Nipp just east of Rushville in Rush County, we had wondered how they met. With George about 8 miles from Leonard's land, they may have been going to the same church, and maybe that's how they met. George Nipp, who married Rebeccah Townsend in Wythe County, Virginia in 1809, had arrived in Connersville in 1815. He bought land in Rush County, Indiana in 1821. To put this in perspective, the western portion of Fayette County belonged to the Indians until 1818; as late as 1820, "Connersville was filled with them every day." In 1820 the white male voters in all of Fayette County totaled 1,153. Barbara arrived in 1831 at the age of 15. Her father Phillip remained in Virginia; her mother had recently died, and there is reason to believe her father was disabled and could not support Barbara. This explains why she would be with her uncle. Uncle George did farming in the summer and shoemaking in the winter. David probably did not meet his father-in-law. Much information on the ancestry of Barbara Nipp is on my website.

Since David Hartzell never owned enough land to make a living in farming, shoemaking must have been his year-round occupation. It would have been difficult to make a living out in the rural areas, so David must have had a shop in town. Maybe at first it was in Rushville, nearer to where his brother Leonard lived, and perhaps this is how he came to know Barbara Nipp. Maybe George Nipp worked with David in the winter. By 1836 his shop must have been 17 miles east in Connersville, which was most likely a larger town.

On May 15, 1836, 30-year-old David married 20-year-old Barbara Nipp in Connersville. The minister who performed the wedding ceremony was George Harlan, M.G. (Regularly ordained minister of the gospel in the Church of Christ). The church was probably the Christian Church (marked "L" on the Connersville map) at Harrison and Water Street (now 5th and Water). 5th Street becomes Route 44 going east. When coming into town in David's time, this church was about the first building you would see. This church seems to be the one the family attended, since David's son James was also married there 22 years later. The minister (George Harlan) was David's age, his wife's name was Sarah, and they had 3 children: James, George, and Rhoda. These are people David knew.

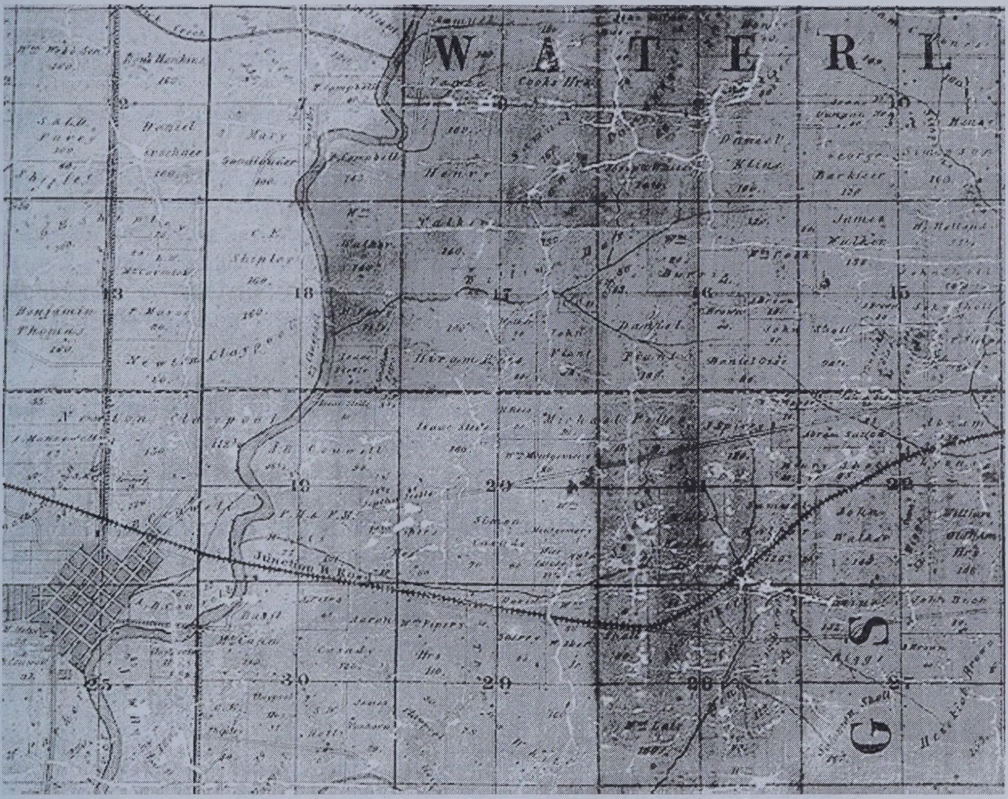
Now that this seems to be the church they attended, it may answer the question why no

Hartsells are buried at Springersville Cemetery, where the Walkers are buried. David's daughter Eliza J. may be buried in the cemetery that was used by the congregation of this church, probably nearby. There is a cemetery, shown on the 1856 plat map, a little north of town, and about 7 blocks north of where the church was. It is now called the old City Cemetery, at 13th and Grand.



1856 Plat Map, Part of Fayette County, Indiana. Width = 5 miles.

David & Barbara made their first home about 3 miles east of downtown Connersville along what is now Route 44, on what was probably Alex Walker's land. This may be how the Walker family came into the picture. Alex's brother Joseph was the father of Sophronia, future second wife of David's son James.

On the 1856 plat map, they were living in the lower right of the map, in Section 28, above the "28" along the road (now route 44). In the lower left is 1856 Connersville, a much larger town now.

On Mar. 18, 1837, David's son James Alexander Hartsell was born. He was very likely named after the James Alexander of Union County, who must have been highly regarded.

On Mar. 11, 1838, daughter Margaret was born, perhaps named after David's Aunt Margaret.

Daughter Rebecca was born in Oct. 1839. She was possibly named after her mother's aunt Rebecca Nipp.

In the 1840 Indiana Census, Union County, James Alexander (his last name) is shown with children John, George, and youngest child Thomas (who later became a doctor), born Sept. 25, 1839.

Daughter Eliza J. was born in 1841, but apparently died after 1850. She may be buried in the old City Cemetery in Connersville.

Daughter Barbara was born Oct. 30, 1842, probably named after her mother.

Around 1845, David's brother Leonard moved from Rush County to Wabash County, Indiana, about 100 miles north, north of Marion, Indiana. James A. Hartsell was only 7 years old, so this may explain why there is no family memory of David's brother Leonard. David probably didn't pack up the whole family if and when he went to visit his brother. The 1840 census shows an Adam Hartsell, b. 1800-1810 (not David's father or George's son) in Wabash County, Noble Twp., the same township where Leonard was in the 1850 census. Adam was not there in 1850.

Sometime in the 1840's David & Barbara had moved 1 1/2 miles north, on or near the land they were to buy in 1853. We have reason to believe they were living in a log cabin in a small wooded area.

Son William was born Apr. 16, 1848. He could have been named after William Walker, father of Alex, Joseph, etc. Walker (see www.jdhartsell.com for Walker family details).

In 1849 news arrived of gold in California. The stories made people believe they could just walk along and pick up the gold.

David's sister "Betsy" Elizabeth (Hartzell) Rentfrow, 1849.
About 51 years old, and presumably living in Kosciusko County, Indiana, between South Bend and Fort Wayne. She died in 1881.
Her husband, Moses Rentfrow, died April 20, 1849 and is buried in Syracuse Cemetery, Kosciusko County, Indiana.

The 1850 census shows that David owned $500 worth of real estate, but no record of buy or sell has been found. I recently realized land in town may be in a different book, and maybe David had a city lot in Connersville where he may have had a shoemaking shop. This is being looked into.

By 1850, James Alexander, still in neighboring Union County Indiana, had added 3 children to his family: Fanny, David, and Adam. Interesting choice of names. James was to leave Indiana in 1852. He died in 1867, and his wife Catherine died in 1879. In the 1880 Topeka, Shawnee County, Kansas census, David and Adam Alexander, ages 36 and 29, were in the State Insane Asylum.

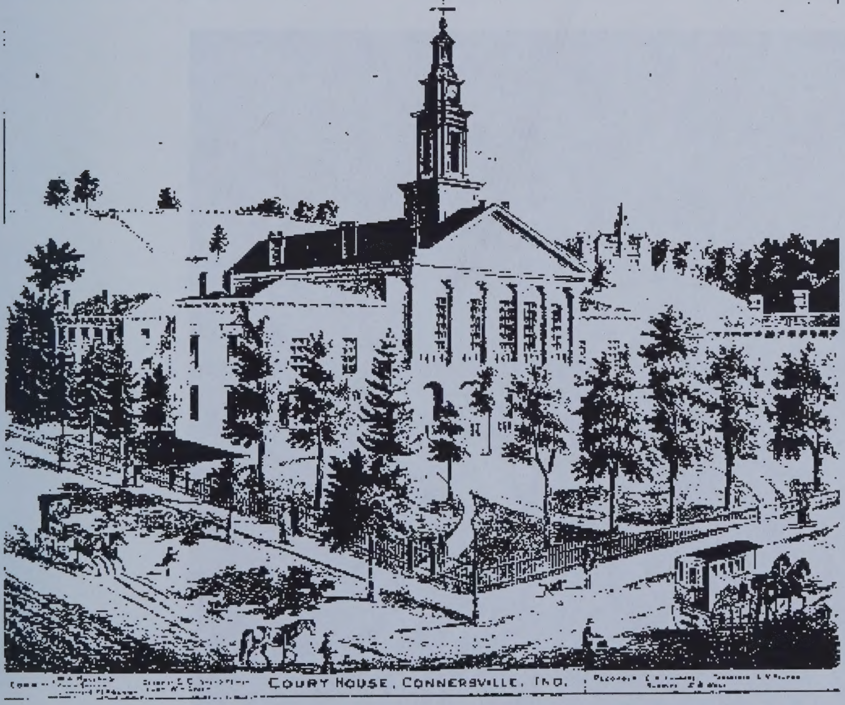
Let's try to picture the scene in 1850. Try to visualize pictures you've seen of frontier people and houses before the Civil War. David had 6 children so far and was now 44 years old. Barbara was 34. Eldest son James A. Hartsell was now 13 and not attending school (normal in those days). It is difficult in modern times to picture what life was like. Picture living in a two or three-room primitive cabin in the damp, cold woods of late autumn. There is no plumbing, no sinks, no bathroom. The "sink" is a bowl on a table. No TV, radio, telephone, or electricity. Furniture is very basic. Beds are wooden and possibly homemade. Several sleep in the same room. In the morning when you wake up it is very cold in the cabin. Someone lights a kerosene lantern. Someone starts a fire in the cookstove or pot-belly stove over in the corner. You can smell the smoke from the fire and the burning kerosene. You go outside to the outhouse or bushes. You wash your hands and face in a washbasin filled with water that was carried from the well. The dirty water is dumped outside. You take a bath once a week or so. The clothes you put on are ragged and still dirty from the last few days. If you're going to school you walk on dirt roads that are often very muddy. Travel is by walking, on horseback, or by horse and wagon. There are penned up horses, and probably cows, pigs and chickens.



COURT HOUSE, CONNERSVILLE, IND.

Fayette County Courthouse, 1849. Connersville, Indiana.

This is how David saw the courthouse and this corner at Madison and Monroe (see building marked "A" on the 1856 Connersville map). This corner is now 4th and Central.

Daughter (Mary) Celestia was born in 1852. She was later known as Aunt Let and her gravestone says Mary C. She is listed in the Census as Celestia (1860) and Salesta (1870).

In 1853, David bought 20 acres in Jennings Township about 1 mile west of Springersville, and 3 1/2 miles east of Connersville. He bought it from Jonas Scholl for $500. It was 8 acres in the NE corner of Section 21, and the adjoining 12 acres in the NW corner of Section 22. He may have already been living on this land, quite likely in a log cabin.

The map below is an 1856 closeup of sections 21 and 22 of Jennings Towhship, along with Waterloo Township sections 16 and 15. You can barely read "D. Hartsel" right in the center, but it is more clearly seen on the original map. A section is one mile wide. The angled road is now Springersville Road. The creek going through David's property is still in about the same place, and the railroad track is still there. Straight east (right) from David's property, at the right edge of the picture, is Springersville, which was laid out in 1840. The Springersville Cemetery is also there. There is a church at Springersville, and 1/2 mile south is another church (there's a drawing of a church), and the Union Cemetery behind this church is where David's daughter Barbara is buried. In the SE quarter of section 16 is what is now north-south farm road 325E, and in 1856 it did not connect with Springersville Road as it does now. There was another church 1/2 mile north of David's property, where there is a drawing of a church, on James Walker's land. The church is no longer there. As mentioned previously, David's family probably attended the Christian Church in Connersville. The names on the map were his neighbors, and he is surrounded by Walkers.

David's land was first occupied in 1813 and 1816. In 1813, David Fletcher homesteaded the NW 1/4 of Section 22. In 1816, Oran Stoddard homesteaded the NE 1/4 of Section 21. The 20 acres David bought were first divided out in 1826 when Jonathon Sutton sold it to James Rumbly. The land is at the border of Waterloo Township, 1/2 mile north of the land where William Walker (Joseph's father) was living. William Walker bought 320 acres there in the 1820's. It is shown here as belonging to his sons Willis, Samuel and John Walker. At this time William Walker was probably living at the bottom center of the map.

On the map, the angled road towards Connersville is now Springersville Road. From this road you can turn north on farm road 325E. From 325E, David's land begins 220 yards east, midway across the field. Given that a rod is 16.5 feet, and starting from the NE corner of section 21, his land went 40 rods west (220 yards), 60 rods east (330 yards), and 32 rods south (176 yards).

David's neighbors to the south were Abram & Sarah Sutton, about the same age as David & Barbara. Abram was probably related to the Jonathon Sutton mentioned above who used to own David's property. Abram's children were James, Jane, William, Samantha, Elizabeth, Lafayette, Thompson and Mary, who must have played with David's children. Neighbors to the north were Daniel & Matilda Gise/Guise and their children David and Minerva. Daniel was a carpenter. (Here's a Daniel, beside David's cousin Daniel, who could have given David the Bible.) Also to the north was John Scholl. To the west was John Spivey; east was another piece of land owned by Daniel Guise.

David probably walked what is now Springersville Road into town. (If it was less than 3 or 4 miles, it seems that it was quicker to walk rather than saddle or hitch up a horse.) The ground level drops as you approach Connersville on this road, and all you see are trees until you get close.

Around 1854 a railroad was put through within 1/2 mile from David's home as shown on the 1856 plat map. They could hear the train from their house, and they must have gone to watch the amazing spectacle of a steam train. The tracks are still in the same place.

In the far NE corner of the 8 acres in section 21 is (as of 2001) a major surprise. It is a preserved timber area with evidence of a homesite with a rock-lined well. Even more fascinating is that a local farmer said there used to be a log cabin here. There is also evidence of a "driveway" going east along the north edge of Section 21 to what is now farm road 325E. This has to be where David Hartzell lived.

Looking north across the 8 acres at NE corner of Section 21, Jennings Township.
Vertical lines are from splicing pictures together.
From the right edge, about 2/3 in on the rightmost picture, just inside the fence, is the homesite location.

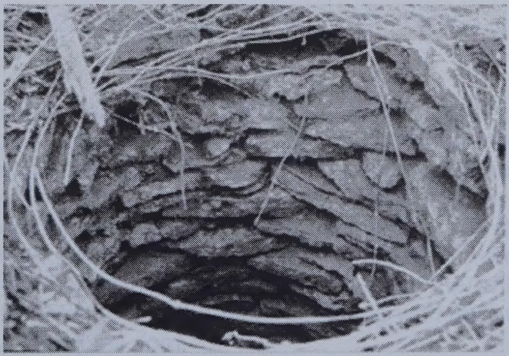
Here I am in 1983 at David's 1853 land and possible homesite, in the SW corner of the timbered area, looking east. Square nails were in the rotted boards.
A stone-lined well is in the backround (covered). In 1999 the boards were gone, and the well had a wire mesh fence around it.

A local farmer said there used to be a log cabin here!



The stone-lined well, about 3 feet in diameter. In 1983 it appeared to be about 25 feet deep, but had probably been filled in some. The well is about 30 feet east of the homesite.

Many more pictures are at www.jdhartsell.com.

From inside the timber area, at the north edge of the property, looking west; this must have been the driveway into the property from the "main" road (now 325E). The driveway must have been along the north edge of section 21. The homesite is south (left) of this spot.

Farmhouse just inside Waterloo Township, looking north on farm road 325E. To the right (east), across the field, is the land David Hartzell owned.

Daughter Elizabeth (Sarah/Sade/Sallie) was born 1854-55. She was later known as Aunt Sade; her gravestone says Sarah. Everyone had nicknames, it seems, and even nicknames had nicknames.

David's oldest brother Phillip died Dec. 1855 in Covington, Miami County, Ohio at the age of 68. David was 50.

We are extremely lucky that there is an 1856 plat map of Fayette County in the courthouse hallway in Connersville, part of which is shown above. David's and Walker family names are or this map. It is a snapshot in time that shows the roads that existed then, towns, churches, streams, neighbors, etc. Using the 1850 Census, and following the census taker's route against the names on the 1856 map, you can find where people lived even when they didn't own land. You can even find the names of the kids that David's children played with when they were kids. How else could you do all this! The map also shows the streets of Connersville at that time. I have photographed this map in segments, and the pictures, along with my partial Index of Owners, are on my website at www.jdhartsell.com.

Another lucky break is that 16 miles south of Connersville, there is the fascinating town of 1838 Old Metamora (www.metamora.com). If you're ever in the area, you absolutely must see this place. My wife Connie and I have stayed at the Metamora Inn, built in 1845, right in Old Town. There are buildings there that David Hartzell must have seen.

On May 6, 1858, at the age of 21, James Alexander Hartsell married (Mary) Elizabeth Palmer, age 21, in Connersville. The wedding ceremony took place at the same church and by the same minister as his father and mother 22 years before. Elizabeth died in 1866 and is not our ancestor. At the time of his son's marriage, David Hartzell was 52 years old.

In 1859, Joseph Walker's family settled in Shelby County Illinois, shortly after his father William died.

SHELBY COUNTY, ILLINOIS, 1860 - 1865

In 1860, David and his family moved 235 miles west to Shelby County, Illinois, in the vicinity of Windsor. Joseph Walker had come back with his two children to help with the move. We don't know why they decided to move. It could have been because of the drought in 1859-60. Moving in order to obtain land could not have been the reason because David's son James did not buy land until 1872. It is curious that David did not sell his 20 acres in Indiana until 1863. They probably could have used the money. Perhaps he thought he'd be coming back. Perhaps the move was because of the impending Civil War: Joseph Walker, who was an avid reader and was well informed, saw what was coming and could have recommended that the Hartsells should move. James A. was military age at 23.

They left Fayette County after the June 1860 Census. The staging area for the wagon train was apparently the town of Alquina (one mile south of SE corner of Section 27 on the 1856 plat map). The 1860 census shows the David and James A. "households" next to each other, with Joseph and his children in David's household, and children Phoebe & Adonija Sutton in James' household. From the census taker's route, they were in Alquina. There is only one reason I can think of why they would be listed in the census at this location, and not back on their land: they had already loaded their possessions in the wagons, the departure of the wagon train was imminent, and they were near the wagons because that's where their stuff was - plus insuring nothing would be stolen. The wagons must have had a canvas shelter and a place to sleep, so they would have been like a traveling home. Since this was June, you may wonder about their crops and why leave now (except for the drought)? Joseph was already living in Illinois, and had come back just to help with the move. David wasn't really a farmer so he had no crops to worry about. I think at this time son James had been earning money as a farm hand. One more thing: it's gone now, but around 1985 there was a large old building in Alquina that could very well have been a boarding house. Maybe the families stayed there just before leaving. I have a picture of the building.

There were at least 4 households in this wagon train, most likely more, with their possessions and possibly some horses and cows in tow:

1. David (54) & Barbara (44) Hartzell and children Margaret (22), William (12), Celestia (8) and Elizabeth (5).
2. James A. Hartsell (23), first wife Mary Elizabeth, and someone else's children Phoebe (13) & Adonijah Sutton (8).
3. Joseph Walker (43) and his children Sophronia (11) (James A's future wife) and Amos (9).
4. David's daughter Rebecca (20) and her husband Timothy Small.

It must have been painful for David & Barbara to leave without their daughter Barbara. A year before, at the age of 16, she had married 36-year-old Samuel Walker, Joseph's brother, and stayed behind in Indiana. Daughter Margaret never married and lived with her parents after the move.

Phoebe & Adonija Sutton must have been the children of David's neighbor Abram Sutton. Abram must have gone ahead to Illinois.

They probably traveled on the National Road, now U.S. Route 40. On this trip, somewhere in Indiana, the youngsters were scolded by their mother (Barbara) for yelling "hurrah for Lincoln" as they were going thru a town and admonished "don't make trouble". You can read all kinds o things into this. The children must have heard the adults talking, and they must have been in an area of southern sympathizers. Lincoln wasn't President yet, but they knew about him. Joseph Walker probably talked a lot about the slavery situation. The children must have been high-spirited and not suffering much so far on the trip.

Try to imagine what this caravan of covered wagons looked like. It must have been in June or July. Eight adults (counting Margaret), and seven children ages 5 to 13. Joseph Walker was hauling some of the other's belongings, having already settled in Illinois, but there must have been 3 household's worth of furniture. Think what they must have taken with them. Foodstuffs, tables, chairs, cupboards, heating woodstoves, dishes, pots & pans, bedding, clothes, tools and maybe a plow, David's shoemaking tools, the children's toys, and even family heirlooms (like the old Bible). There had to be at least 4 wagons. Plus, the usual mode of travel in those days was to tie a spare team of horses to the back of the wagon, and switch horses periodically to give the pulling horses a rest.

Windsor, Illinois, bottom center.

David Hartzell had now traveled over 700 miles in two family moves, by wagon train, from Rocky Mount, Virgina to Windsor, Illinois.

It is thought that David & Barbara, along with their younger children, lived with widower Joseph Walker after the move, probably in Windsor Township. (In 1870, after David died, Barbara was a live-in housekeeper in the home of Joseph Walker in Windsor Township. Margaret (32), William (22) and Celestia (18) were also in the household. In 1880, shortly after Barbara died, Margaret was still in the household at age 41.)

David was 55 years old when the Civil War began April 12, 1861. James A. was 24.

Illinois was recognized as a northern state during the war although there were many southern sympathizers. Trainloads of soldiers from Chicago passed through Windsor on their way to the South. Injured and dead soldiers were going north. Immigration of new settlers virtually stopped during the war.

In 1863, during the Civil War, David sold his land in Fayette County Indiana for $500 to Richard Slithens. The fact that he kept it this long implies he may have planned to go back. Maybe he gave up with the war lasting so long. He must have gone to Connersville to sign the papers, and must have visited daughter Barbara.

On Sunday, March 5, 1865, David Hartzell died, at the age of 59 years, 3 months, and 13 days. He and wife Barbara are buried at Ash Grove (now Cochran's Grove) Cemetery, east of the church, in Ash Grove Township, Shelby County, Illinois, about 1.5 miles SE of Windsor.

David died 6 weeks before Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, and 2 months before the Civil War ended.

The cemetery had its first burial 7 years earlier in 1858, so it must have been fairly small with all of it east of the church. At David's burial, it was winter and probably cold. No leaves on the trees. Horses and wagons were tied up nearby. Among the people at David's graveside were his widow Barbara, age 50; son James, age 28, & his wife Mary Elizabeth, age 21, who was to die a year later; daughter Margaret, age 27; daughter Rebecca, age 25, & her husband Timothy Small; son William, age 17; daughter Celeste (Let/Mary), age 14; and daughter Elizabeth (Sarah), age 10. Daughter Barbara, age 22, was living back in Indiana and may not have been there. Joseph Walker, age 51 was surely there, along with his children Sophronia, age 15, and Amos, age 14. They were all dressed like people you see in pictures during the Civil War era.

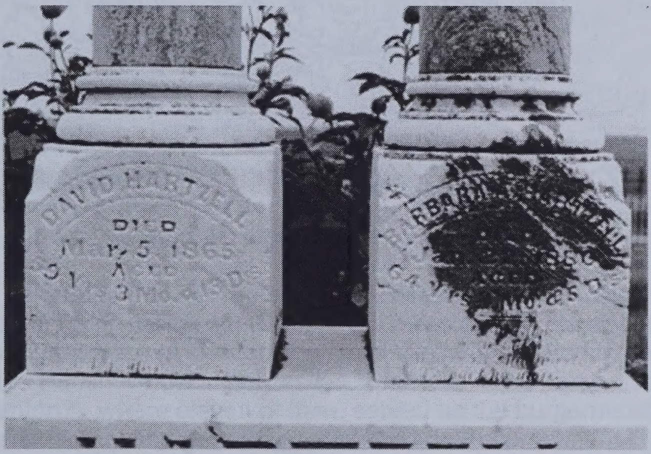
David Hartzell died before and never knew the following events: On Feb. 25, 1866, his daughter-in-law Mary Elizabeth died at the age of 29, 8 years after marriage. There were no apparent children by this marriage. On Dec. 23, 1868, James A. Hartsell, age 31, married Sophronia Walker, age 20. On Aug. 21, 1870, their baby Mary Elizabeth (note the name) died at the age of 1 year, 8 months and 22 days. All are buried next to David Hartzell's grave.

So now, the grave of David Hartzell no longer stands as a mystery. He had parents. He had brothers and sisters. We now know where he was throughout his life.



SUMMARY OF DAVID HARTZELL'S LIFE

David Hartzell's great-great grandfather Hans George Hirtzel came to America in 1727, along with David's great-grandfather who was 11 years old. The family first settled in Pennsylvania, and moved to Virgina in 1792. David Hartzell was the son of Adam and Christina (Sink) Hartzell. David was born Nov. 20, 1805 near Boone's Mill, Franklin County, Virginia, about 10 miles south of Roanoke. He was 10 when the family moved in 1815 to Ellerton, Montgomery County, Ohio, about 10 miles SW of Dayton. David appears to have moved to Union County Indiana before 1830, and was probably in Rush County Indiana around 1832. David was a shoemaker. He married Barbara Nipp on May 15, 1836 in Connersville, Fayette County, Indiana. They lived in Jennings Township, near Springersville, about 3 miles east of Connersville. In 1860, David and his family moved to Shelby County, Illinois, in the vicinity of Windsor. David Hartzell died Mar. 5, 1865 in Windsor Township, Shelby County, Illinois.

For those of you who know about the old leather-bound Bible, and Daniel Hartsell or Ferdenand Hartsell as David's father, see "Evidence For Ancestry of David Hartzell".

Region Around Zurich, Switzerland

The earliest known generations of our Hirzel-Hirtzel-Hertzel-Hartzell family lived in Pfäffikon Parish of the Zürich Canton in Switzerland, some ten miles east of the city of Zürich (note the scale in the top right of the map). A Canton is a small territorial division in Switzerland. It appears that Pfäffikon Parish is now simply called “Pfäffikon”. The name Hirzel was very well known in Zürich (Canton?), where eleven of them served as the burgermeister or mayor. There are several volumes of history and genealogy published on the prominent Hirzel line in Switzerland. At least one of these is in the library at SLC. It is in German, and takes the genealogy of the Hirzels back to the early 1300s. An Annemarie (Hirzel) Fariña wrote: “All the Hirzels have their origin in Pfäffikon, Canton Zürich. My genealogical tree starts with Niklaus Hirzel who lived from 1402 till 1446 at Pfäffikon. According to the first official document dated 811 AD the village was then "Faffinochova"; in the year 1308 AD it is documented as "Pfeffinkon". “

Off the map, near the southern shore of Zürich See (Lake) lies the village of Hirzel. It unfortunately has no connection to our ancestors.

David's great-great-great-great-great-grandfather Jacob Hirzel (pronounced “Hirtzel”) was born in 1580 in Pfäffikon Parish, Zürich Canton, Switzerland, and christened Feb. 14, 1581 in Fehraltorf (less than 2 miles NW of Pfäffikon). He married Madalen Keller Aug. 2, 1601 in Pfäffikon Parish. They had their first five children in the parish of Pfäffikon, and lived "in Hochfalden in the congregation Hittnau, same Parish" in 1610 and 1611. After that they were in the towns of Balm and/or Fierersbalm, probably for the rest of their lives, but we have no death record for either. All of these locations are within a few miles of the town of Pfäffikon. Jacob died before 1634 in Balm, Pfäffikon Parish.

David's great-great-great-great-grandfather Heinrich Hirzel was born Jan. 12, 1619 in Pfäffikon Parish, Zürich Canton, Switzerland, and christened Feb. 28, 1619 in the same parish. He married Maria Steiner Jan. 12, 1646 in Lysslingen, Switzerland. After their marriage they resided in Sulzberg with his brother Felix. In 1653, they emigrated to Reihen, Kries Sinsheim, Baden, The Palatinate (SE of Heidelberg, Germany). Heinrich died June 23, 1663 in Reihen, near Sinsheim, Baden.

David's great-great-great-grandfather Clemens Hirzel was born Feb. 20, 1659 in Reihen, Kries Sinsheim, Baden, The Palatinate. He married Anna Sinter Nov. 23, 1680 in Reihen, Baden, The Palatinate. Clemens' godfather was the Rev. Clemens Hirzel, as of 1651 Pastor of the Reihen Evangelishe (Reformed) Kirche. The pastor emigrated from Winterthur, north of Pfäffikon, and may have headed the emigration from Switzerland to Reihen. Our ancestor died Mar. 25, 1707 in Reihen, Duchy of Baden, The Palatinate.

David's great-great-grandfather Hans Georg Hirtzel was christened May 30, 1686 in Reihen, near Sinsheim, Baden, The Palatinate. He married Anna Margaretha Conrad before 1714 in Reihen. He emigrated from The Palatinate, arriving in Philadelphia by Sep. 14, 1727 on the William and Sarah, from Rotterdam by way of Dover. His 11-year old son, Hans Jacob (below) accompanied him. Anna died before or during the trip. Hans Georg died after Nov. 12, 1747 in Lower Saucon, Bucks (now Northampton) County, Pennsylvania.

David's great-grandfather Hans Jacob Hertzel was christened Apr. 16, 1716 in Reihen, Baden, The Palatinate. He came to America as an 11-year old with his father in 1727 on the ship William & Sarah. He married Barbel “Barbara” Ritter about 1743 in Northampton, Pennsylvania. He moved about 1755 to Bethlehem Township in the recently created Northampton County. He died Feb. 11, 1781 in Bethlehem Twp., Northampton County, Pennsylvania, and was buried in Dryland Cemetery, Northampton.

David's grandfather Johann Phillip Hartzell was born Apr. 20, 1743 and christened May 1, 1743 in Old Williams, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. He married Christina Barbara Kreiling on Apr. 30, 1765 in Dryland, Bethlehem, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. By 1781 he moved to York (now Adams) County, Pennsylvania, on the Maryland border. After 1792 he moved his family to Rocky Mount, Franklin County, Virginia. He died after 1820 near Rocky Mount, Franklin County, Virginia.

David's father Adam Hartzell was born about 1765 in Bethlehem, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. He was about 13 years old when his father moved the family around 1780 from Northampton County to York (now Adams) County, Pennsylvania, on the Maryland border. Adam married Christina Sink in 1786 in Pennsylvania. Adam's father moved the family to Rocky Mount, Franklin County, Virginia (south of Roanoke) around 1794. In 1815, Adam’s family moved to Ellerton, Montgomery County, Ohio, southeast of Dayton. Adam probably died in the 1830’s. It is believed they were both buried at Ellerton.

SIGNIFICANT CHANGES SINCE 11/25/02 VERSION:

David Hartzell's birthdate as Nov. 20, 1805, not Nov. 22. For some reason, on recalculation, I had changed it to the 22nd, but the 20th is correct. On Feb. 20, 1865 he would have been 59 years and 3 months old. On March 5, 1865 he was 59 years, 3 months, and 13 days old (28 days in February, 1805).

Information on David's sister Elizabeth ("Betsy") from her descendant Harlan Rentfrow. Elizabeth was born in 1798. Her picture is shown at the 1849 period of this document.

Hertzel vs. Hartzell: the letter from Jonas Hartzell to his brother Philip (David's grandfather) spells the name as "Hartzell". Likewise in the early Franklin County Virginia marriage records. I'm going with "Hartzell" from Philip down to David.

Changed web address from www.jdhartsell.com/david/david.html to www.jdhartsell.com/DavidHartzell.

1792 land purchase by Philip Hartzell, 1796 purchase by Abraham Hartzell, Settlement Map of Franklin County, VA 1786-1886, and new conclusions on when the family moved to Franklin County.

Introduced George Hartzell of Union County Indiana as a possible son or cousin of Adam Hartzell. If a cousin, he may have been the son of John & Catherine (Schneider) Hartzell. Whichever it is, he still provides a positive connection of David Hartzell to Franklin County, Virginia.

Added information about where the family lived in Franklin County, Virginia.

Removed the marriage of our Adam Hartzell to Mary Spiekard Aug. 11, 1821. It was an Adam Hetzel who married Mary Spikard Aug. 10, 1826. There was a Hetzel family.

This database is intended to be a "work-in-progress" which is subject to regular updating and corrections. I use my genealogy program as a worksheet to keep track of data. Therefore, there may be changes often as information develops. Some of the information here is based on documentation and some non-confirmed from other researchers and compilers. And, there is even some "best guess" scenarios. If you find an error in my data or have information to add, I would appreciate hearing from you.

ROBERT N. HARTZELL—The Piqua firm of Hartzell Industries, Inc., has continued for three generations under the capable direction of members of the Hartzell family. Its present head is Robert N. Hartzell, who has held his office as president for over a quarter-century. The firm has a nationwide reputation in the manufacture of lumber and veneers, aircraft propellers, and industrial fans.

Mr. Hartzell was born at Greenville, Ohio, on June 3, 1896, the son of George W. and Deborah (Norris) Hartzell, and the grandson of John T. Hartzell, who in 1875 founded the company which still bears his name. He began the enterprise by opening a sawmill at Greenville, and for about fifteen years thereafter, specialized in the production of oak and ash lumber for building wagons. George W. Hartzell succeeded his father, purchasing the company in 1900, and moved the business to Piqua, Ohio. In 1915 the firm began the manufacture of gunstocks, and in the same year a veneer mill was opened. In 1917 when this country entered World War I and aircraft suddenly assumed new importance for military purposes, the company began the manufacture of propellers. The growth of the automobile industry provided another market, and in 1920, the Hartzell organization began manufacturing wooden steering wheels. The main office at Piqua, still in use, was also built in 1920. During the succeeding decade, the firm became a major supplier of wooden battery cases. In 1924 a Hartzell-built airplane won first place in its class at the International Air Races in Dayton, Ohio. The following year the company added wooden victrola cabinets to its line of products and it began the manufacture of propeller-type fans in 1927. In 1929 another sawmill was constructed at West Burlington, Iowa. The continued growth of the companies, under the capable leadership of Robert N. Hartzell, who assumed management in 1933, has been a dynamic continuation of the above record of progress.

Mr. Hartzell attended local public schools and the University of Cincinnati. He became interested in the production of airplane propellers at the time of World War I, and started the company's division for their manufacture. He acquired valuable experience in the over-all problems of management, and was well prepared for the new duties placed upon his shoulders when his father died in 1933. He has proved himself a far-sighted and aggressive executive. In 1940 he erected a new plant for the fan division, and in the same year there was developed a plastic material used in the construction of cooling tower fans. In 1946 it began making propellers of plastic. Between 1942 and 1944 it took the lead in developing a process for gluing wood to metal in the production of gliders. In 1945 vaneaxial propelled type blowers were introduced in the fan division line; and the year 1948 saw the beginning of the manufacture of all-metal airplane propellers for commercial use. The plant of the fan division was enlarged in 1950, and a new and modern mill was erected at West Burlington, Iowa in 1952. The following year, a Canadian warehouse was opened.

In addition to Robert N. Hartzell as president of the firm, its officers are George W. Hartzell and Miriam H. Hartzell, vice presidents, Robert Reck, secretary, and Thomas H. Hartzell, treasurer. Robert N. Hartzell, George W. Hartzell, James R. Hartzell, J. P. Mikesell, and Robert Reck serve on the board of directors.

Besides heading the parent firm, Mr. Hartzell is president of its subsidiary, Hartzell Propeller, Inc., and he is also president of the Castle Hills Corporation, and a director of the Piqua National Bank and Trust Company.

He is a member and past president of the Piqua Rotary Club, also a member of the lodges of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at Piqua, and the Free and Accepted Masons at Dayton; and in Masonry he belongs to the higher bodies of the order, holding the Thirty-second degree. His other memberships include the Piqua Country Club and Troy Country Club. He is a communicant of the Presbyterian Church at Troy, Ohio.

In Dayton, Robert N. Hartzell married Miriam Herrman, daughter of Thomas B. and Eve (Dunham) Herrman. The couple are the parents of four children, all of whom were born in Troy, Ohio: 1. George W., vice president of Hartzell Industries, Inc. He was born October 6, 1923, graduated from Purdue University with a degree in Mechanical Engineering. He served as a paratrooper in the United States Army. He is married to Patricia Recker, and they have a daughter, Melinda. 2. Kathryn, born October 6, 1923, attended Ohio Wesleyan College and Purdue University, and then the Katharine Gibbs College of Business in New York City. Later she continued her education at the University of Dayton, graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree in art education. She and her husband, Danal Johnston have a daughter, Janet. 3. Thomas, born February 9, 1928, attended Ohio State University, graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree in business administration. He served in the United States Navy as a lieutenant. He is married to Helene Craig and they have four children: Suzan Kay, Kathleen Gay, Julie Lynn, and Thomas Craig. 4. James Richard, born February 20, 1934, Troy, Ohio, vice president of Piqua Aircraft Company, a subsidiary of Hartzell Propeller, Inc., graduated from the public schools of Troy. He is married to Beverly Jean Siler. They have a son, James Robert.
